

Product Tracking Software

Track the entire life-cycle of a product

The Alyxis Product Tracking System (APTS) is a comprehensive solution built specifically to help track the entire life-cycle of a product. With APTS, you can track a product from design and development to packaging, sales process, order confirmation, and inventory control. The unique web-based interface allows for easy access from anywhere in the world (given network connectivity).

Dynamic Quest provides configuration, testing, installation, documentation, and training, so you can experience a complete solution.

> Simplicity

Do you have a system in place that supports your entire product life cycle?

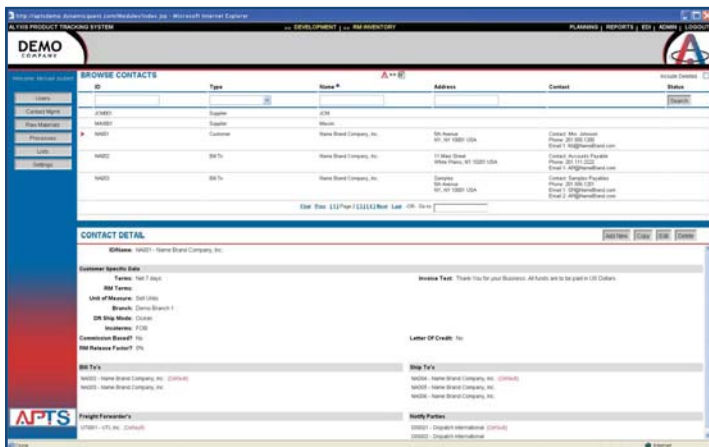

Focus on your business, while our team customizes a system that tracks your product from the beginning to the end.
